WHAT COMES FIRST

DEAR TORAH FAN

Following Passover is the Feast of Unleavened Bread, a seven-day feast during which nothing is eaten that contains leaven. This is a commemoration of the exodus when the Israelites fled Egypt, leaving without enough time to wait for their bread to rise.

During the Feast of Unleavened Bread there is always a weekly Sabbath (sundown Friday to sundown Saturday). The day after the Sabbath we are told to bring the "first fruits" of the harvest (the first ripe barley in the field) and raise it as a wave offering; this is the Day of First Fruits.

Leviticus 23 details how, in Temple times, the people were to bring a sheaf of grain to the priest on the Day of First Fruits. The priest would wave the sheaf before the Almighty. This offering was to be made of the "First Fruits" of the barley harvest; no other grain was to be harvested until the First Fruits offering was brought to the Almighty.

What makes this offering so significant is that it was given from the first ripe parts of the harvest – they didn't know if the rest of the crop would mature or if it would succumb to pests, weeds, or weather. Quite literally, they gave everything to YeHoVaH before keeping anything for themselves! As such the First Fruits offering was a "faith" offering. Given without reservation, it demonstrated that YeHoVaH came first in the worshipper's life and heart.

Though there is no temple to which we can bring our offering today, we can still give of our vocational increase, just as the Israelites gave of their agricultural increase. The motivation remains the same: It is a declaration that you trust the Almighty to provide for you throughout the coming year.

If you feel that this ministry provides you and others with the message of truth that comes first in your life, we would be honored to accept your First Fruits offering. We will wave it wholeheartedly and with faith on your behalf as we provide the answers to those who are looking for meaning in religion that they just can't find. Your First Fruits offering is a gift that will bring the truth to someone for the first time.
