RESTORING THE HEBREW ROOTS
OF THE CHRISTIAN FAITH

JUNE 2026

YESHUA'S ONE-YEAR COUNTDOWN

It was a Sabbath day on June 7, 27 CE (13th day of the 3rd month). The whole community of Nazareth had packed into the synagogue because Yeshua was there — and not just attending. He stood to read. In that moment, every voice quieted. Every expectation rose. No one was prepared for what he was about to do.

"When he opened the scroll, he found the place where it was written, and he read: 'The Spirit of YeHoVaH is upon me, because YeHoVaH has anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek; he has sent me to heal the brokenhearted, to proclaim deliverance to the captives 'and recovering of sight to the blind,' to set at liberty those who are bound, to preach the acceptable year of YeHoVaH.'" He closed the scroll, gave it back to the rabbi, and sat down. Every eye in the synagogue was riveted on him. He began, "This day is this Scripture fulfilled in your ears."

– Luke 4:17-21 (The Chronological Gospels Bible)

This event occurred on the first Shabbat after Shavuot. One year later, on the Feast of Shavuot, the Messiah would immerse his followers with the Ruach Kodesh — but here, he declared the countdown had already begun. The fulfillment of the Spring Feasts of YeHoVaH was now in motion.

Yet, most scholars miss how bold Yeshua's action was. He didn't just read the Scripture — he interrupted it. He deliberately stopped mid-sentence, violating the synagogue "three verse rule" — a direct challenge to the traditions everyone in that room lived by. This is the tension Luke captures in verse 20.

According to rabbinic law, one may read any portion of the Torah or the Prophets in the service, but one must read a full section, now interpreted as at least three verses (Talmud, Megillah 22a). Yeshua stopped in the middle of the second sentence and sat down (there were no chapter markings until 1250 CE or verse markings until 1550 CE). By doing so, he cut off the part of the prophecy not yet fulfilled. If he had read the second part, he could not have proclaimed: "This day is this Scripture fulfilled in your ears!"

The room wasn't just quiet — it was stunned.

As Paul Harvey used to say, "Now you know the rest of the story."

See you when the smoke clears,

THE MAKING OF A GODLY MAN

Men, this one's for you. From youth to old age, a man's role matures, but the foundation remains the same: obedience, responsibility, and covenant faithfulness. In fact, your Torah-observant home rises or falls on your devotion to YeHoVaH's instructions.

YOUNG MEN

Your focus is preparation. In the Torah, Joseph resisted temptation, honored authority, and developed character long before leadership was placed upon him. Likewise, the Apostle Paul teaches that self-control and purity are marks of spiritual strength. A young man builds his future by mastering his desires, honoring his parents, and learning to serve rather than be served.

HUSBANDS

Covenant leadership is the key here — not passive or authoritarian, but sacrificial. The Torah reveals this pattern in Adam, who was to guard and keep before Eve was even formed. In the Brit Hadashah, Paul instructs husbands to love their wives as Messiah loved the assembly, leading in righteousness, providing stability, and setting the spiritual tone of the home through daily example.

FATHERS

Deuteronomy commands fathers to diligently teach their children the commandments at all times. A father must be present, instructing both by word and action. The example of Abraham, who was chosen because he would command his children to keep the way of YeHoVaH, shows that generational faithfulness begins with intentional leadership in the home.

ELDERS

A seasoned man's role shifts from provider to legacy builder through wisdom and reinforcement. Scripture consistently honors elders who guide the younger generations. Paul's mentorship of Timothy reflects this generational transfer of faith and instruction. Elder men strengthen the family by reminding them of YeHoVaH's covenant promises and demonstrating endurance.

In every stage, a godly man is not defined by culture but by covenant. He fears YeHoVaH, walks in His instructions, and leads by example, building a household that reflects the Gospel of the Kingdom from one generation to the next.

GETTING GOD'S BACK TO WAYS

THIS MONTH ON...
Shabbat
NIGHT LIVE
with Michael Rood

with Dr. Michael Aesir

What if the chaos in our world isn't happenstance, but a direct result of abandoning a perfect design? Indeed, we've replaced the wisdom of the Torah with man-made systems for education, health, and daily living — and the consequences are everywhere.

Dr. Michael Aesir is on a bold mission to restore YeHoVaH's original blueprint for how we learn, relate, eat, and live.

Getting Back To God's Ways will open your eyes and challenge what you've accepted as "normal," awaken your spirit, and reveal a higher, better way: God's way.
