RESTORING THE HEBREW ROOTS OF THE CHRISTIAN FAITH

SEPTEMBER 2026

YOM TERUAH —AND THE FEEDING— OF THE 5,000

Imagine standing among 5,000 people on the shore of the Galilee on the twenty-eighth day of the sixth month. In only two days, thousands of shofars will announce Yom Teruah (the Day of Trumpets) and the beginning of the fall festival season. As evening approaches, the disciples see only an impossible problem: a hungry multitude and no food.

Yeshua sees something entirely different.

The inventory is almost laughable: five loaves and two fish. Yet what happened next became the only miracle recorded by all four Gospel writers. The multitude simply ate a meal, but the disciples knew the impossible circumstances behind it.

Did the disciples recognize the striking parallels to David more than 1,000 years earlier? Fleeing from Saul with nothing to eat, David asked Ahimelech the priest, "Have you on hand five loaves?" (1 Samuel 21:1-6). Indeed, only weeks before, Yeshua had reminded the Pharisees of this very event when they condemned His disciples for plucking grain on the Sabbath.

The connection is difficult to miss. Just as David was sustained in the wilderness at the moment he needed provision, Yeshua's disciples learned that the King greater than David would never send them into His work empty-handed. Their resources were insignificant, but His were limitless.

After 5,000 people had eaten their fill, twelve baskets remained — one for each disciple. The One who fed thousands also ensured that those serving Him lacked nothing. I imagine this was the moment it all made sense to the disciples: David requested five loaves and received the leftover showbread that had just been replaced (1 Samuel 21:1-6). Likewise, the disciples who plucked grain were eating what the Torah reserved as leftover gleanings for the poor (Leviticus 19:9-10; Deuteronomy 24:19). Now, just weeks later, five loaves produced twelve baskets of leftovers, symbolizing Yeshua's abundant provision for His sent ones (shlichim).

With Yom Teruah only days away, this miracle became a prophetic rehearsal. As Israel prepared to hear the shofar announcing the coming King, the Bread of Life had already arrived, proving that those who answer His call can trust Him completely. The God who multiplied bread in the wilderness will sustain His people until the last trump announces Messiah's return.

CITIZENS OF ISRAEL

with Scott Harwell

PASSPORT

Who are you, biblically speaking? Are you a Christian... or are you Israel? Many believers unknowingly embrace a separationist theology that divides what YeHoVaH intended to be one.

While most Christians would immediately deny that the Almighty has one bride, while the Messiah has another, many of the church's most common teachings lead to exactly that conclusion, creating confusion, division, and even hostility toward those who do not yet recognize Yeshua as the Messiah.

Using an ingenious color-coded guide, Scott Harwell untangles the identities of Judah, Ephraim, and Israel, revealing how defining these biblical terms correctly unlocks a clearer understanding of the Word of YeHoVaH.
